

DONG's logo on the national football team's training gear

DONG's management has today decided that DONG's logo will adorn the national football team's training gear when they leave for Israel to play a friendly match on 1 March.

The decision to remove DONG's logo turned out to be due to the misunderstanding that DBU's (the Danish Football Association's) request that sponsors consider removing their logos from the national team's training gear and parade wear was based on a safety assessment.

This proved not to be the case, and DONG has therefore today decided that its logo will adorn the players' training gear and parade wear.
