Doro's popular easy-to-use mobiles to be distributed through Vodafone

Starting in August 2010, two of Doro®'s most popular models – PhoneEasy® 338gsm and 345gsm – will be sold through the Vodafone's network in Germany. Vodafone is one of the largest telecommunications companies in the world and service approximately 35 million German customers.

In German retail, Doro is already an established brand, with sales through major operators and retail stores. The sales through Vodafone will further strengthen this position in one of Doro's key markets. This collaboration, and previous agreements with other large European based operators like Orange, Telia, TDC and Bouygues Telecom, confirms Doro's leadership in the category Telecom in Care Electronics.

The Doro models now available through Vodafone share the distinct design of Doro's easy-to-use GSM phones. This includes large buttons, an easy-to-read display and a limited set of features making everyday life a little easier.
