Doro continues its international expansion through a sales agreement with O2 of Ireland

Doro is continuing its international expansion through a sales agreement with Irish operator O2. Effective from today, the company will offer its customers the easy-to-use clamshell model Doro PhoneEasy® 409bw through more than 70 retail stores and on-line.

O2, which is Ireland's second-largest operator with over 1.7 million connections, is part of Telefónica, one of the largest telecommunications companies in the world, with a presence in 25 countries and a customer base of 259 million connections around the world.

Brendan Moran, Head of Consumer Operations at O2 says: "With Ireland's growing ageing population, it is becoming more and more important for us to invest in products appropriate for this market. Doro is a world leader in easy-to-use mobile handsets and we're delighted to be able to offer this device to our customers."

Doro's President and CEO Jérôme Arnaud comments: "I am very pleased that we are able to reach Ireland's growing senior population through this agreement with O2, which has a great understanding of senior's needs for modern but easy-to-use technology. I am certain that this cooperation will enhance both our and O2 Ireland's sales and I hope that this is just the first step in developing our cooperation with O2/Telefónica."
