(f) Stock

The stock is recorded at the lower of cost and net realisable value. The stock value is accounted for using the weighted average method. Where required, slow moving, obsolete or damaged stock has been written down.

(g) Accounts receivable

Accounts receivable are recorded in the balance sheet at their net value less provisions made to cover anticipated loss on bad and doubtful accounts receivable. Specific provisions for doubtful accounts receivable are made when the recoverability of the specific debtor is considered by the Company's management to be uncertain. A general provision for doubtful accounts receivable is made in addition to the specific provisions based on accounts receivable ageing.

(h) Finance leases

Leases of assets under which the Company has substantially all the risks and rewards of ownership are classified as financial leases. Financial leases are capitalised at the inception of the lease at the present value of the minimum lease payments. Interest element of leasing payments is charged to the profit and loss account over the lease period.

(i) Operating leases

The Company as a lessee

Lease in which a significant portion of the risks and rewards of ownership are retained by the lessor are classified as operating leases. Payments made under operating leases (net of any financial incentives received from the lessor) are charged to the profit and loss account on a straight-line basis over the period of the lease.

The Company as a lessor

Assets that are leased out under operating lease terms are recorded within fixed assets at historic cost less depreciation. Depreciation is calculated on a straight-line basis to write down each asset to its estimated residual value over its estimated useful life using rates set for similar assets of the Company. Rental income from operating lease including advances received is recognised on a straight-line basis over the period of the lease.

(j) Investments in subsidiary undertakings and associated companies

Investments in subsidiary undertakings and associated companies are stated at cost value that is adjusted in case of permanent diminution in value.

In case reliable evidence exists that the value of the investment in subsidiary undertaking or associated company has decreased, loss from diminution in value is calculated as a difference between the carrying value and the recoverable value of the respective investment. The recoverable value is equal to the larger of two amounts – fair value of the investment net of disposal costs and value in use. Loss from permanent diminution of value can be reversed if in subsequent periods the estimates supporting the initial recognition of diminution of value change.

(k) Subsidies and donations

Subsidies relating to the purchase of specific assets are recorded as deferred income and are credited to the profit and loss account on a straight-line basis over the expected lives of the related assets.

Deferred tax is provided for using liability method on all temporary differences arising between the tax bases of assets and liabilities and their carrying amounts in the financial statements. Where an overall deferred taxation asset arises, it is only recognised in the financial statements where its recoverability is foreseen with reasonable certainty.

Amount of provision for unused annual leave is determined by multiplying the average wage of employees in the reporting year per day by the amount of accrued but unused annual leave at the end of the reporting year.

(n) Originated loans

In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.
